SATURDAY, MARCH 1. LUNALILO, DECEASED.

Supreme Court-In Probate IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF HIS LATE NAJESTY

THE PACIFIC

The trustees of this estate set forth, that from the sales of property belonging to said estate, they have cash assets in their hands, amounting to $28.25.6°, and ask for directions.

The question at the hearing was, whether the sum should be invested on bond and mortgage, to the end that when the buildings contemplated by the will of his late Majesty shall have been constructed, there may be something left to keep the buildings in repair and to maintain the inmates, or whether it is the duty of the trustees to commence to build immediately and expend the sum of $25,000 in the ground and buildings.

The will of his late Majesty devises to his trustees, who are to be nominated by the majority of the Justices of the Supreme Court, or the Court of the highest jurisdiction in these Hawaiian Islands, all his real estate, to be held by them (said trustees) in trust for the following purposes, to wit: "To sell and dispose of said real estate to the best advantage at public or private sale, and to invest the proceeds in some secure manner, until the aggregate sum shall amount to $25,000, or until the sum realized by the said trustees shall, with donations or contributions from other sources, amount to the said sum of the sum realized by the said trustees shall, with donations or contributions from other sources, amount to the said sum of $25,000; then I order the trustees (to be appointed as aforesaid) to expend the whole amount in the purchase of land and in the erection of a building or buildings, on the Island of Oahu, of iroo, stone, brick or other fireproof material, for the use and accommodation of poor, destitute and infirm people of Hawaiian (aboriginal) blood or extraction, giving preference to old people, upon such terms, rents or charges as to the said majority of the Justices of the Supreme Court, or Court of highest jurisdiction in these Hawaiian Islands, shall seem proper." It is evident that the testator, at the time of making this will, did not suppose that his real property would be so valuable as it has since proved to be. He even appears to have thought it quite possible that it would not realise upon sale so much as $25,000; and, if such should be the case, he directed that it should be invested until, by the force of its own accumulation, or by the addition of donations from other persons, mulation, or by the addition of donations from other persons, it should amount to said sum of $25,000, which he evidently thought to be the smallest sum necessary for the foundation of the charity which he contemplated. But his further commands are, that when the sum of $25,000 shall have been realized, he ground should be purchased and the building commenced, and the whole sum of $25,000 expended.

The creation is asked of as 16 the whole sum should be thus The question is asked of us, if the whole sum should be thus expended, how are the trustees to maintain the building and the inmates? The answer is, that the deceased has so ordered, and the trustees must faifill the wishes of the deceased. The testator probably had good reasons for the disposition which he made, and, upon inspecting his will, good reasons will appear on the face of it. For he evidently contemplated that his ex-ample will be the inducement for others to add to the efficacy of the charity the foundation alone of which he is laying, and tarther, he did not contemplate that the inmatos were to be maintained out of this charity, for he says that buildings are to be erected for the use and accommodation of the poor, desti-tute and infirm, upon such terms, rents and charges as to the majority of the Justices of the Supreme Court shall seem proper; and this is more apparent by a subsequent clause, where he says: "But, in case sufficient buildings shall have been provided (from some other source) for the use and accommo-dation of poor, destitute and infirm Hawaiians as aforesaid, then I hereby order and direct that the said trustees shall apthen I hereby order and direct that the said trustees shall apply the net rents, issues and profits arising from the principal sum realized from the said real estate, when sold as aforesaid, towards the maintaining of the said buildings in repair, in their improvement, and towards the support and maintenance of the inmates aforesaid as in the opinion of the said trustees shall seem best." Other words can scarcely make the meaning more plain than the words used by the testator. None of the rents, issues and profits arising out of the $25,000 is to be used for the repair of the buildings, their improvement, or the support of inmates, until a building or buildings sufficient for the purpose—that is to say, as sufficient as $25,000 will provide—shall have been erected. But if other persons shall provide sufficient buildings, or partially provide them, so that vide sufficient buildings, or partially provide them, so that there will be either the whole or a part of the whole $25,000 remaining, then, and not till then, the rents, issues and profits of the sum so remaining shall be devoted to the repair or improvement of the buildings and the maintenance of inmates.

Whereas, therefore, the sum of $25,000 has accumulated in the hands of the trustees, it is hereby ordered that they proceed forthwith to purchase the ground and erect the buildings

CHAS. C. BARRIS, C. J. A. FRANCIS JUDD, First Associate Justice. LAURENCE McCULLY, Second Associate Justice Honolula, Feb. 20th, 1879.

Supreme Court-In Equity.

Before the Vice Chancellor J. M. Smith, E. O. Hall and S. B. Dole, trustees of the Estate of Lunalilo, vs. S. G. Wilder, Minister of Interior. This is a bill in equity to determine the right of pos-session, care and control of the mansoleum which was crected in the year 1875, in the churchyard of the Kawai-ahao church in Honolniu, and which now contains the remains of His late Majesty Lunalilo.

The churchyard in question was convered by dead of The churchyard in question was conveyed by deed of King Kamehameha III and his Kuhina Nui, Kekauluohi, dated the 21st day of July, A. D. 1842. It is entitled "The Conveyance of the Stone Church standing in Kewaiahao in Honolulu," and grants the building and premises to the members of that church so long as they adhere to the religious creed which is given in full in the deed. This deed was confirmed by the "Board of Commissioners to Quiet Land Titles" on the 22d January. A. D. 1849, by Award on Claim No. 635, which awards "the premises to the members of the first church of Honoiulu, to have and to hold the same to them and their successors upon the terms and conditions set forth in the before mentioned deed, or in other words, so long as they shall continue to exist as a church and sustain their present faith."

On the 19th September, 1874, on the request of the executor of the will of His late Mejesty, the executive committee of the Kawaiahao church dedicated and set apart a site for the erection of this mansoleum, on the western side of the churchyard, which action was, on the apart a site for the erection of this mausoleum, on the western side of the churchyard, which action was, on the 26th September, ratified and adopted by the Board of Lunas, or church officers, and the report of the executive committee ordered engrossed on the church records. The dedication thus formally made, would estop the Kawaiahao church from revoking the dedication and from making any other disposition of this ground, so long as it continued to be used as the site for the Lunalilo mausoleum.

I quote from "Hunter vs. Trustees of Sandy Hill," 6 Hill, 411: "Land may be dedicated to pious and charitable purposes, as well as for public ways, commons and other casements in the nature of ways, so as to conclude the owner who makes the dedication. Dedication, as the torm is used in seference to this subject, is the act of devoting or giving property for some proper object, and in such a manner as to conclude the owner.

"The law which governs such cases is anomalous. Or "The law which governs such cases is anomalous. Or-dinarily, some conveyance or written instrument is re-quired to transmit a right to real property; but the law applicable to dedications is different. A dedication may be made without writing; by act in pair, as well as by deed.

applicable to dedications is different. A dedication may be made without writing; by act in pais, as well as by deed.

"It is not at all necessary that the owner should part with the title which he has, for dedication has respect to the possession, and not the permanent estate. Its effect is not to deprive a party of title to his land, but to estop him while the dedication continues in force, from asserting that right of exclusive possession and enjoyment which the owner of property ordinarily has."

See also Cincinnati vs. Lessees of White, 6 Peters, 431. Commonwealth vs. Viall, 2 Allen, 514.

The dedication of this land for the erection of a royal mansoleum, may be considered as a dedication if not to a quari public use, certainly to a purpose, the character of which as a resting place for the dead entitles that it should be sacredly preserved and hallowed.

According to the common law in cases of ordinary interments in the ground, the heir has no property in the Lodies or ashes of his ancestors, and he cannot sustain an action against such as disturb the remains, but as the body after burial becomes a part of the ground where it was committed, "earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust," the person who has the freehold of the soil can bring an action of trespass quare clausum fregit, against those who disturb or disinter it; and any person who has the actual possession of the land may sustain this action against a wrong doer.

2 Blackstone's Com., 429.

Meagher vs. Discall, 99 Mass., 281.

Barnstable vs. Thatcher, 3 Met., 243.

But where the owner of the freehold of the cemetery has by a deed conferred a right to the exclusive occurs.

But where the owner of the freehold of the cemetery has by a deed conferred a right to the exclusive occupation of a particular lot in a cemetery, such grantee may maintain an action for trespass on the particular lot. See 99 Mass., 284.

Blackstone says further, that "other personal chattels there are, which also descend to the heir in the nature of heirlooms, as a monument or tombstone in a church, or the coat-armour of his ancestor there hung up, with the pennons and other ensigns of honor suited to his degree. In this case, albeit the freshold of the church is in the parson, and these are annexed to that freshold, yet cannot the parson or any other take them away or deface them, but is liable to an action from the heir." 2 B. Com., 429.

The facts of the case before us are quite different, and The body of His late Majesty was not interred in the ground, nor was it placed in a church with a monument, or tomb erected over it, or affixed to the walls or floor of the church, but it was placed in a separate mausoleum erected by the executor of his will, in accordance with its plain directions. In the Kawaiahao church was placed in the church is the church in the Kawaiahao churchyard in Money and the church was placed in the church was p plain directions, in the Kawaiahao churchyard in Ho lulu.

By directing the "suitable tomb" to be erected for the reception of his own and his father's remains, the royal testator contemplated the expenditure of a considerable sum of money from his estate; for a "suitable tomb" must mean a tomb suitable for the interment of one of Hawaii's kings in the condition of this one as to lands and fortune, and that it would be, when built, a permanent structure affixed to the soil.

I think also that the testator must have contemplated nent structure affixed to the soil.

I think also that the testator must have contemplated that his tomb would, according to the custom of this kingdom, need a custodian as well as repairs in course of time. Now when he made the disposition of all his real estate to trustees for a charitable purpose, he had a right to assume that when the time came (on the death of his father) for the appointment of the trustees, this tomb would be built and that it would form a part of his estate. That the tomb itself on land dedicated upon a formal record by the holders of the freehold to this purpose, is a part of the estate of His late Majesty, I have no doubt. And though there are no specific words in the will, vesting it in the trustees or authorizing them to expend money in keeping it in repair, I am of the opinion that it was the intention of the testator that his trustees should have that authority.

have that authority.

In 2 Perry on Trusts, S. 477, a citation in made from 2 Hare, 145, in which it was held, "where a fund was directed to be laid out in land and ther was already a settled estate to the same uses, it might be more beneficial to apply part of the fund to prevent buildings on the settled estate from going to destruction than to apply the whole fund to the purchase of new lands, but it would be an extraordinary case which would move the Court to create an extension."

create an exception."

And ibid Sec. 478, "Superintendents of public works and similar quasi trustees may apply the funds under their control in opposing legislation which would operate injuriously to the interests confided to them. Lord ate injuriously to the interests confided to them. Lord Cottenham said that, 'every trustee is to be allowed the reasonable and proper expenses incurred in protecting the property committed to his care."

His Majesty Lunallio having disposed of all his property real and personal by will, his heirs at law have no interest in this matter. The Kawaiahao church have, by dedication, consented to the use of a portion of their free-hold for this mausoleum; it has no funds which can be used for its care and maintenance; it is under no legal or moral obligations to sustain this mausoleum; it has therefore no further interest in it so long as the site is kept for the purposes for which it was dedicated.

The claim of the Minister of the Interior now remains to be considered. It is quite plain from the will that the testator wished his remains to be kept free from state control. If he wished otherwise, he would not have provided a special tomb for himself, and his remains then would have reposed in the state mausoleum. But it is said that the grant of the Legislature of $400 for " pay of keeper of Lunalilo's tomb" for two years, implies the right of the Minister of the Interior, who is the dispenser of this fund, to the possession of the tomb. But this grant was purely a voluntary one on the part of the Legislature for services to be rendered, and the government is not bound to draw and expend it, as it would be if this sum was voted in fulfillment of some prior obligation or contract on the part of the government. If the government should ascertain that the services of a keeper were not needed, or that his pay was otherwise provided for, it would be under no obligation to draw or expend the money.

This mausoleum not being state property, the govern-Cottenham said that, 'every trustee is to be allowed the money.

This manusoleum not being state property, the government is under no obligation to care for it, and the government's act in taking possession of it cannot be justified. As in my opinion, the intention of the testator will be better carried out by the possession of this tomb remaining in the trustees of his real estate, I therefore grant the prayer of the bill and decree accordingly.
